

“when you decide to follow someone on Twitter (...) it will bring up suggestions for people to follow, and [this website] will tell you whether your account is being included in those kind of searches or whether it’s not. For a while, mine wasn’t and I was on that kind of ban (...) called a search suppression.

they’ll also do this thing called reply de-boosting. Your tweets are actively hidden (....) so that even your followers don’t get notification that you’ve tweeted if you post something. I was on that for about a week.”