Coping mechanism: Self-management

Other participants carefully self-monitor how much time they spend online and who they interact with.

"What I've started to do is every week say what are my priorities and my goals through this week (...). And actually, is having one more minute or 15 more minutes on this thing contributing to that in a positive way? Sometimes yes, most of the time no."